TID BITS

- Baskin Robbins has a new flavour called "Watermelon Chip" which has crunchy candy seeds.
- A Finnish study suggests eating 2 oz. of blue Gouda, Edam or Roquefort cheese daily can reduce your risk of viral infections by 24%.
- Iceland's thicker, creamier version of yogurt is called "Skyr". It packs more protein than Greek yogurt. It is over 1000 years old, claiming to be the healthiest yogurt of all.
- A new study found that people who supplemented with probiotic from yogurt daily for a month were happier and better able to overcome bouts of sadness. Your brain and gut send messages to each other.
- Believe it or not, Spam has a cheese variety of its canned meat. It was introduced recently on its 75th birthday.

- You can aerate a glass of wine with an electric hand held milk frother. It only takes 2 seconds.

CONGRATULATIONS!

Congratulations to the Bill, Henny, Alex and Amanda Klop family for the start up of the New GEA MIone Robotic installation. As a retrofit, this is a must see. The equipment is performing beyond expectations. Come out to the Open House on Nov. 18th, 10 am to 2 pm, to see it live in action. Please send Richard a text or email him at richards@pacificdairy.net to let him know you are planning to attend.

PIZZA

Although, practically any cheese can be used to make pizza, certain kinds often find themselves in the pizzeria kitchens. It is certainly what makes pizzas good and healthy. The following are the main cheese ingredients (use one to three of them):

Mozzarella	Provolone
Monterey Jack	Feta
Ricotta	Gruyere
Parmesan	Comte
Chevre (Goat)	Gorgonzola
Cheddar

PUMP WOES

Over the years the service department contends with manure pump malfunctions. The reasons are varied but many times the main reason is a combination of objects and gravity. The following is a list of objects they find jammed in pump bottom impellers:

Plastic	Broom Handles
Hoof Blocks	Bolts & Nuts
Twine	Stall Rubber
Tools	Nails & Screws

- It is definitely important to keep barns clean and to be careful where things land up!

HOARDS DAIRYMAN

In the June 2015 issue of Hoards Dairyman in the Editorial Comment, they always write what Mr. Hoard said 130 years ago. They always seem somewhat relevant to today's dairyman. Here is an example of one of his quotes:

"Here are the three cardinal principles of dairy farming, good land, good crops, good cows but at the bottom lies good land and a farmer wise enough to keep it good." Certainly in this day and age of public environmental stewardship, this makes a lot of sense.

(Founder Hoards 1885)

CONGRATULATIONS ALSO TO:

Congratulations to the start up of Hendrick and Jennifer Klop's farm in Chilliwack, Moonlight Dairy, as new milk producers!

LARGEST COLLECTION

The largest collection of cow related items belongs to Ruth Klossner of Bernadotte, Minnesota. She started collecting cow items in the 1970's and today her collection has 15,144 pieces, far surpassing the Guinness World record of 3,200 cow items. Klossner's Cow Collection Mooseum is located in her home and will be open to visitors by appointments. (Call 504-240-0048)
