

NEW YEAR 2014

All of us at Pacific Dairy Centre would like to wish everyone a Blessed and Prosperous New Year!

The United Nations declares this year as the International Year of Family Farming. "It is worth celebrating family farming because, in all its diversity, it is the model of food production that really feeds the world, while caring for the earth," said Jose Osaba of World Rural Forum, an association that promotes rural issues. "Seventy percent of the world's food production is provided by the family farm". About 40 percent of households in the world depend on family farming as a way of life.

MILK CRAZE

There is a new craze among students, known as "milking". It involves standing in a public place such as on a traffic island, in a wheelie bin, or at a train station and pouring a four pint container of milk over one's own head. It is certainly causing a stir. As crazes go, it probably will not last. Many of these crazes began in 1939 at Harvard when a student, called Lothrop Washington, boasted to his colleagues that he had swallowed a gold fish. The race was on between schools to the point of extreme competition which went from one person swallowing 28 fish to the record of 300.

START UPS

This January is a month of start ups for various pieces of equipment for our customers.

We congratulate the following farms with the start up of their new systems.

Daldas Farms

Installation and start of their "tube rider" manure scraper system with GEA Houle Box Scraper and Pump.

Steffania Farms

Installation and start of their 2 Box Insentec milking system with Cable Scrapers and Belt feeding system.

Summershade Holsteins

Installation and start of their Dari-Tech 8' x 40' Bedding Master.

Vedderlea Holsteins

Installation and start of their Dari-Tech 6' x 20' Bedding Master.

University of British Columbia

Installation and start of their Dari-Tech Sand Cannon, Sand Bedding Recycler.

We would like to thank these dairies for their choice of equipment!

MILK DRESSES

There have been clothes made from cardboard, elastic bands and plastic bags but this latest invention has really caught many people off guard. How about clothes made from milk? Yes, believe it or not! Scientist and fashion designer, Anke Domaske, has spent years developing this material. Using the unwanted, substantial sour milk that would normally be poured away, she heats and presses the protein rich liquid and creates a thread in just one hour, using no pesticides or toxins. It is as soft as silk but cheaper and can be washed like normal in your washing machine.
